Pilot Projects and Preparatory Actions in the field of sport

2016 - 2019

INTRODUCTION

Foreword by Commissioner Gabriel

Dear Readers, Dear Friends of Sport,

As EU Commissioner responsible for sport, it is my honour to introduce this information brochure which summarises the key achievements of projects supported by the European Union under the framework of the Pilot Projects and Preparatory Actions in the field of sport between 2016 and 2019.

Sport was included in the policies of the European Union, when it was mentioned for the first time in the Treaty of Lisbon in 2009. Since then, a lot has been achieved. Initiatives such as the European Week of Sport, which celebrated its 5th anniversary last year, and gathered more than 15 million participants in more than 30 000 events across the EU helped to promote the role of sport in every day life. On the same note, the Tartu Call for a Healthy Lifestyle launched on 22 September 2017 by Commissioners Phil Hogan (Agriculture and Rural Development), Tibor Navracsics (Education, Culture, Youth and Sport) and Vytenis Andriukaitis (Health and Food Safety) set out a roadmap for promoting healthy lifestyles in Europe, with particular focus on children. Finally, among many others, we can mention the #BeInclusive EU Sport Awards, recognising every year sport organisations working with ethnic minorities, refugees, people with disabilities, youth groups at-risk, or any other group that faces challenging social circumstances. Undeniably, sport plays a role at the European level.

In this context, I am thankful to the European Parliament, which from the very beginning has understood the importance and significance of the European sport policy, and initiated the Preparatory Actions and Special Events in the field of sport in 2009. The result is more than satisfactory. These actions aim to prepare future EU activities in the field of sport, by testing suitable networks and good practices in various areas.

Many inspiring projects have been funded and have contributed to the use of the full potential of sport, by tackling radicalisation, encouraging social inclusion and integration of refugees, or by promoting European values at the municipal level. Furthermore, those projects played a significant role in the development of new skills for sport organisations' staff. Indeed, learning mobility can be beneficial for individuals, for their organisations, and for sport and society as a whole, within and beyond EU borders. In total, 107 projects were supported between 2016 and 2019 with a total budget of EUR 12,5 million.

In addition to this source of funding, the Erasmus+ Sport Chapter has been very successful since its introduction in 2014. Taking the Pilot Projects and Preparatory Actions as a source of inspiration, we are fully prepared to build an ambitious new programme for the next seven years. The crucial and manifold role of sport is recognised by the European Union and is reflected in the priorities that have been set in this area as well as in the projects implemented on the ground.

Get in the Game! - Networking and Training Platform for the Integration of Refugees through Sports

Streetfootballworld (DE)

Total budget: 79.884 €
EU grant: 60.000 €

Main project aims

- Increase capacity of sport organisations in the EU on the integration of refugees by gathering local expertise, solutions and best practices;
- Raise awareness towards the integrational potential and relevance of football as a tool for social inclusion;
- Facilitate the access of refugees, especially women, to local sport programmes and promote their active role;
- Increase the interconnectedness of the actors, create cross-sectoral partnerships and develop sustainable support structures for the field.

Main project outcomes

- Get in the Game Summit united global leaders from the world of football; 127 organisations from across Streetfootballworld’s network – representing 85 countries, including 14 EU countries and spanning 5 continents; including a range of external guests from the football industry and government officials participated in the conference;
- The event increased the number of organisations applying the same approach, in addition to the efficiency and efficacy of the programmes;
- Promoted awareness for the benefits of integrating refugees through sports among civil society, the public sector, sports, politics, the public and the media; it has supported the use of the game to turn refugees into active members in their new communities;
- Consolidated the network and its actors in terms of exchange of best practices, multilateral support and joint impact measurement; and increased access to sport and physical activities for refugees, especially women.

Effective Integration through Sports

Terre des hommes Hellas (EL)

Total budget: 75.313 €
EU grant: 60.000 €

Main project aims

- Support refugees over the age of 15 in Greece by strengthening local capacity to provide football as a tool for protection to refugees and improving social inclusion, social cohesion and psychosocial wellbeing of 200 refugees through football;
- Develop a replicable and exportable model of using football as a tool for protection which would ensure - a safe and supportive environment; create opportunities to build young people's individual skills, capacities and resources; positive and sustained support and mentoring of peers, coaches and others; and meaningful engagement and leadership of refugees in Sport for Protection activities.

Main project outcomes

- Demonstrated that football can be used to promote integration and inclusion of refugees, helping them to feel more connected and increase their self-worth;
- Demonstrated that the core pillars of resilience (feeling safe, respected and hopeful) are reduced if they are not combined with other interventions which address the basic needs of participants;
- Coaches with an interest in Football for Protection (F4P) created leadership opportunities; developed participants' life skills and confidence; and engaged refugees and local people meaningfully by creating a safe space to provide protective support for their peers;
- Coaches became able to direct refugees to protection services and helped them to develop certain life skills including collaboration, communication, self-awareness and emotional management, creative thinking, and taking responsibility.
